Thank you Rocky Mountain Naturalists

From Nature Trust of BC:
The Rocky Mountain Naturalists have sent a donation to Wycliffe Wildlife Corridor - Wycliffe Prairie - The Nature Trust of British Columbia project with a $500 donation. We are thankful for their kind support! Another great partnership to advance biodiversity conservation.

Federal Court sides with conservation groups over the Canadian government's failure to protect at-risk birds' habitat

FROM CBC

Chief Justice Crampton found that Minister Steven Guilbeault's interpretation of the Species at Risk Act was unreasonable

VANCOUVER/UNCEDED x^wməθk^wəy^əm (MUSQUEAM), S^kwxwú7mesh (SQUAMISH) AND səlilwətəɪ (TSLEIL-WAUTUTH) TERRITORIES – A Federal Court Justice has ruled in favour of conservation groups that challenged the federal Environment Minister for failing to take action to protect the critical habitats of at-risk migratory birds across the country. This includes the threatened Marbled Murrelet, a seabird that relies on coastal old-growth forests in B.C. for nesting. Continue reading at this LINK

Conservation group buys out hunting rights in B.C. rainforest to protect wildlife

VICTORIA — A British Columbia conservation group says it has purchased exclusive hunting rights to a quarter of the Great Bear Rainforest on the province's north and central coast to protect wildlife there.

The Raincoast Conservation Foundation says it took two years to raise $1.92 million to buy the 18,000-square-kilometre tenure off commercial hunting operators. READ MORE
